

Extended Project Qualification

What is the exam board and route?

A Level Extended Project Qualification (EPQ) AQA

Subject outline

Independent research project on a subject of the student's own choosing. The student proposes a topic and question, undertakes research and then produces a final written report (or artefact/item).

How is the course assessed?

No exam. There is a log book to complete throughout the project process, the outcome is a 5,000 word written essay/report and a presentation is required.

Why study this subject?

This is an option provided to enhance the package of A Levels undertaken by students at LGS. The opportunity for extended research is one greatly valued in educational development.

Complementary subjects

Students can choose the topic/subject for the research; therefore, the EPQ complements any subject.